MY LITERARY FINGERPRINT

We all have traits that make us unique. No two people are exactly the same in terms of face, hair, eyes, height, weight, skin tone, etc. The smaller you look, the more different we are – teeth, tongue, retinal patterns, DNA. Few markers are more readily identifiable than the fingerprint. It's a little signature you leave on everything you touch. This is true of our personalities and our minds, as well. Take a moment to think about all the stories you've enjoyed during your life. Write the titles below to find your own, unique literary fingerprint.
